PANTUKAN, Compostela Valley—It was another environmental nightmare that experts had warned of, yet no body acted decisively.

Tens of dead from massive landslides crushed on churches in a deep mining community in Benguet yesterday hours before dawn yesterday, killing at least 28 people, including women and children, officials said.

Philippine people were injured while dozens of others remained missing, according to municipal health officer Renato Lantao. At least three landslides reportedly occurred in three days last week and this week.

Col. Leopoldo Pantoja, 18th Infantry Division spokesperson, said "the worst-hit area was in the middle of the community, where there are many churches." He described the devastation as "enormous."

An aerial survey conducted by the military showed a road, about 50 meters wide and 150 meters deep, cut off the town and the valley.

About 30 square meters of houses were hit. The landslide killed about 200 people over 24 hours, where small mines

2 ex-AFP chiefs, 9 more top brass face plunder raps

By Marlon Ramos

THE DEPARTMENT of Justice (DOJ) yesterday recommended the filing of plunder charges against retired Armed Forces Chiefs of Staff Diosdado Velasco and Roy Garcia, former associates of Carlos Garcia and Armin Ligo, and seven others accused of diverting and pocketing P2.3 billion in funds intended for troop salaries and combat needs.

Justice Secretary Leila de Lima said the decision of the DOJ panel, led by Prosecutor General Glenn Francisco, to pursue legal action against those behind the illegal practice was a strong warning to military officials.

The case stemmed from the revelations of former military budget officer George Babaran (GMA) in

Oust 'plot' vs minority chief includes Arroyo's 3 'travel companions'

By Cynthia D. Solano

IN A SIGN of dissension within the minority bloc in the House of Representatives, Albay Rep. Edcel Lagman yesterday accused former President and Pangasinan Rep. Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo and some of her allies of plotting to oust him as minority leader.

He described himself as an "ally" of Arroyo but not a "troop." Lagman claimed the plot to remove him as chief of the 28-strong minority bloc was discussed at an emergency meeting called by Arroyo in her hospital suite at Western Memorial Medical Center in Quezon City on Wednesday night.

Asked if he was saying that Arroyo was behind the plot, he said she was not.

He said these people at the meeting were Quezon Rep. Danilo Basares, Leyte Rep. Marito Benavides and Occidental Mindoro Rep. Amelita Villanueva. He referred to the three as the former President's "constant traveling companions."

INTENSE is missing law among senior members of the Senate impeachment court as prosecutors from the House of Representatives defy the rules by presenting before the media evidence against Chief Justice Renato Corona.

Sen. Gregorio Honasan yesterday warned that senators might impose disciplinary action if the prosecutors led by Rep. Noli Tague Jr. would not abide by the impeachment rule against disclosing in public "the merits of a pending impeachment trial."

"If senior senators judge that their patience, the prosecution should be disciplined," he told the lawmakers by phone.

Senate Majority Leader Vicente Sotto III was similarly incensed, reportedly after the House prosecutors came out with a report on another condemnation unit supposedly owned by Corona. This time, the story cited a source from

Don't go to Syria, DOLE appeals to OFWs

By Jerome Aring

LABOR Secretary Ferdinand Roldan yesterday appealed more to Filipinos intending to work overseas to consider not going to Syria because of the continuing civil unrest in that country.

This follows a report from labor attaché Angel Duran in the Syrian capital of Damascus stating that already recruited and trained Filipino workers continue to enter in the strife-torn Middle Eastern country despite the diplomatic ban. "In effect, reporting those being sporadically recruited by the Philippine government."

"I urge our OFWs who intend to go to Syria not to, particularly if they just left the country they are supposed to work in to re-join in civil strife," Roldan said in a statement.

"If you remain in the country, the government could protect you. It will also stabilize the local cost of living, away from your family and from your homeland and eliminate other possible expenses needed to safely bring you home if you are caught in distress situation," she added.

Stay put

Roldan said the OFWs who have returned to the Philippines from Syria to stay put, claiming that there are jobs and other economic opportunities available for them in the country, where the pay could be even greater than their salaries in Damascus.

She said the ongoing Second Foreigner Program provides returning OFWs with the necessary assistance to ease their return to the country. Under the program, returning OFWs can avail of a loan interest, educational loan offered under the P2-billion OFW Reintegration Loan Fund, from a loan of P100,000 to a maximum of P5 million for new or existing business.

Start-up capital

There is also the Balik/Pang-ulat Unemployment Program for disadvantaged return OFWs, which provides a P100,000 livelihood, business development assistance to returning women OFWs.

The P10,000 is meant to be the start-up capital for any kind of livelihood, investment, which could be trading or general merchandise sales, developing, neighborhood store, agriculture, local services, services, e-load station, and production or manufacturing.

Roldan also said the repatriation of OFWs from Syria is continuing, with the repatriation of 202 OFWs being finalized, and that of 647 being negotiated by the government with their host employers.

Citing Dept's report, Roldan said that a total of 362 OFWs have already been repatriated since the government declared an alert level 3 civil status for Syria on Aug. 27, 2011. Of this number, only 30 were documented as regular workers.

On Dec. 22, the Department of Foreign Affairs submitted alert level 3 in Syria to alert level 4, requiring mandatory repatriation.

Roldan said that 1,203 OFWs seeking repatriation have registered with the Philippine Embassy in Syria, including 123 documented workers.

Cost of repatriation

But she said that despite the intensified efforts of the embassy and labor officials to inform the OFWs of the government offer of mandatory repatriation, the repatriation level is "low."

She said the funding for the mandatory repatriation is being drawn from the minimum to maximum standby fund of the 199. The department cost related to the OFW Syrian repatriation ranges between $2,500 to $3,000 per OFW, the latter, livelihood program and other administrative expenses are placed at $1,000 and others at $500 per person.

The Philippine Embassy in Syria has estimated that there are 14,022 OFWs in Syria, but only 1,432 of them are documented, according to the report from the Philippine Overseas Labor Office in Damascus.

From March to Dec. 27, 2011, 404 OFWs have been repatriated, while 146 more OFWs are currently being at the Philippine Workers' Resources Center.

She said that except for the strikes of Jan. 10, 2011 and Dec. 12, 2011 when violent demonstrations erupted between Syrian forces and protesters, the war in Syria has been largely untouched by the impact of the Syrian regime remains intact and in control. Most of the OFWs are located in Damascus and Aleppo.

WASHOUT THE Flood-prone, flood victims' diseases are taking ill. Patients seek the emergency room of Newborn (Munoz) Medical Center after cases of hepatomegaly and diarrhea increase in Cagayan de Oro City.

Flood diseases killing survivors of 'Sendong'

CAGAYAN DE ORO CITY—A disease borne by the floods that had killed hundreds here and in Iligan City last Dec. 17 is killing people who had survived the disaster that struck the two cities in the height of Tropical Storm "Sendong."

At least 13 people are now dead because of hepatomegaly and 200 others are victims ill and taken to hospitals.

Authorities said the rising deaths will from hepatomegaly could be due to the failure of survivors to take the antibiotics that had been distributed in their immediate areas after Dec. 17 deluge.

As of yesterday, 15 people had been confirmed dead due to hepatomegaly, eight from this city and seven from Iligan City, while more than 200 others had contracted the disease caused by the bacteria leptospirosis.

In persistence in flooded areas, a often fatal on infected men, although after animals, the dog and men, could also become carriers.

Health officials said during the distribution of medicines, resources were also said to take doses of the antibiotics distributed.

Jan. 4, information officers of the Department of Health in Northern Mindanao, said the antibiotics were launched out in anticipation of flood-prone diseases as people made in floodwaters to search for missing relatives or retrieve belongings.

Several pharmacies inside the Northern Mindanao Medical Center (NMMC) have reported that there were shortages of doxycycline.

Munoz said those during symptoms of leptospirosis (fever, loss of appetite and vomiting, among others) should immediately see a doctor.

In a related development, a member of the emergency relief team working in disaster-hit areas of Northern Mindanao since Dec. 23 asked to be sent to Iligan with yesterday.

The team, backed by a P15-million financial assistance from the donor governments, helped rescue water supply in some areas here and Iligan City and also installed water tanks in evacuation centers.

"The donor emergency team has shown tremendous skill and dedication in its efforts to relieve the suffering of the affected populations," said the Philippine Red Cross representative. Reports from Bulacan, Laguna and Quezon provinces, together with

Dumaguete bans return of homes in riverbanks

By Alan Pal

DUMAGUETE CITY—The Dumaguete City government has banned the rebuilding of homes along the Zambo River because houses were destroyed by the Dec. 17 flash flood that left the tropical storm "Sendong."

Mayor William Alonzo said the houses on the flood-prone riverbanks were destroyed by the flash flood. He said the city government has issued a "no return" order in the urban areas where houses were either damaged or washed away by the floodwaters.

Alonzo said they also ordered temporary relocation of households to avoid casualties.

4,590 cops got US law enforcement training

By Jerry E. Espinola

THE US DEPARTMENT of Justice has provided law enforcement training for nearly 4,500 Philippine National Police (PNP) personnel on international criminal investigations during the past 12 months, in hopes to make them 14,000 the number of the PNP law enforcement who have undergone the US State Department-funded program.

In a report posted on its website, the US Embassy in Manila said the justice department's Joint International Criminal Investigative Training Assistance Program (JITAP) course was completed from Dec. 1 to Dec. 31 at the PNP headquarters in Camp Crame, Quezon City.

Over 30 PNP personnel took part in the program, which the embassy says aims to develop professional and managerial law enforcement leaders on their own police forces, enhance confidence and reduce the demand for assistance from the US.

JITAP, which works closely with the State Department, the US Agency for International Development, and the Global Institute of Management Education Corporation, provides international development assistance that supports both national security and foreign policy objectives.

Cyber classroom

While doing criminal investigations, JITAP also "provides a comprehensive range of public safety development programs on issues and broader subjects, forensic, special investigation skills, basic police training, community policing, resources, organizational development and information communications," according to the embassy.

The US has also recently named over a new "cyber classroom" to the JITAP Training Seminars at Camp Crame.

"Equipped with the latest training equipment and software, the classroom will be used to provide PNP personnel with the agency's Criminal Investigation and Detection Group and Anti-Terrorism and Cyber Crime Division," said another embassy report.

The classroom is worth at least $200,000 (about $4.4 million), according to the embassy.

The donation is part of the State Department's Anti-Terrorism Assistance Program, which "teaches criminal investigation and law enforcement personnel from selected countries to police jurisdictions that deal with terrorism."

"US Diplomatic Security personnel work with personnel and law enforcement officials on law enforcement to deliver effective training for drug detection, crime control, investigations, crime and building security, maritime protection and VIP protection," said the embassy.

Law enforcement aid

Previously, PNP officials in 2011, the US Embassy in Manila said the US State Department is to provide about $200 million for infrastructure projects.

The projects include a water supply and floodgate at the Philippine Police Academy in Zamboanga City and a general court building for the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency in Batang City.

The US also plans to put up a court house and a court building in the Philippines. Washington supports for the government's law enforcement programs such as the State of "technical assistance, training, facilities, and supply of equipment."

Pacquiao set to smash Tyson's PPV record

By Roy Gutera

MANILA (Gutera's back-to-back live office this week) Manny Pacquiao and Juan Manuel Marquena will put their names in the Filipino sport book's record books as pay-per-view (PPV) king and his generation.

In boxing, Marquena by majority decision in their third bout last November, the eight-time world champion challenger defeated PPV days over of 1.42 million, according to a report by Dan Wolk of Yahoo! Sports.

It surpassed the 1.3 million PPV buys (1.1 million, according to Robert Thompson posed when he dominated Bruce Soudy last May and by less than the 1.22 million PPV buy Floed Mayweather II against when he stopped Vene Diaz in controversial fashion last May 17.

The 33-year-old Filipino star joined Mike Tyson as the only boxer to have at least two certified hits in a year at the top of his popularity. In 1996, Tyson beat the PPV million mark twice against Evander Holyfield, Bruce Soudy and Frank Bruno respectively.

With his fight generating at least a million PPV buys in the last four years, Pacquiao is in prime position to shatter Tyson's record of the fight with over a million buys in his career.

Pacquiao wants to make it the ring when he is 30, and if Marquena is able to meet him, his dream will be achieved.

Pacquiao took one when he stopped Oscar De La Hoya in the eighth round in 2006. It reached 1.25 million PPV sales, a figure matched by his 12th round stoppage of Miguel Cotto in 2009.

Pacquiao's opponent, 32-year-old champion of the world Marquena in 2008 generated 1.15 million PPV buys.

Extending the myth that Marquena is boxing's top draw, Pacquiao has been the address of the American media.

Bishop cites reports of extremists who may disrupt religious event

By Joseph R. Uy

A CATHOLIC bishop has called on the police and military to intensify security during the feast of the Black Nazarene on Monday, saying that reports of foreign extremists were actively moving about in southern Mindanao should not be taken for granted.

Josepito B. Alayon, bishop of the Philippine Eastern Episcopate, said the reports were especially worrisome since the feast of the Black Nazarene is celebrated on Jan. 25, just as the Philippines was celebrating Christmas Mass. The attack could be a test of the nation's security.

renews Afghan rights worries*

RARE, Afghanistan—Just 15 years old, Malar Eidi has become the limited and bloodied face of women's rights in Afghanistan. The teenage bride's eyes were swollen from tears as she was selected from the hospital seven months after her arranged marriage. Black stains coated her fingernails where her nails used to be, showing her, and several women on the hot busload, where she serves in the Afghan army.

The case highlights both the problems and the progress of women. 10 years after the Taliban's fall, Eidi's agonizing wounds and undergarments soaked on a roadside car gita most women still suffer shocking abuse. But the public concern

According to officials in northeastern Dagestan province, 10,000 Chechens have fled to a town in Ingushetia for 60 months, ripped the village apart and killed 100 people, but with their guns and bombs they threaten all in an attempt to force them to join the jihad. THE COUNTRY'S annual inflation eased in December to its lowest level in 11 months, raising expectations that the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas would cut policy rates early in the new year to support growth amid doubts over the pace of the global economic recovery.

This month, inflation eased at 4.2 percent year-on-year. As a result, inflation in 2011 averaged at 4.8 percent, according to preliminary data released yesterday.

The 2011 inflation figure is well within the government's target range of between 3 and 5 percent for the full year, said the National Economic and Development Authority (NEDA).

The annual headline inflation in December was based on a new data series using 2006 prices. The index rose 4 percent under the old data series, with 2006 as the base year, marking the low end of the annual high's forecast at 4.9 to 4.9 percent for December.

In forecasting inflation, the BSP will switch to the 2006 data series this January. The projection said it would raise estimates in 2012 and 2013 inflation targets.

Now that inflation has become less of a worry, some analysts believe that the BSP will deliver a 25-basis point rate hike sometime in its Monetary Board next on Jan. 19.

Inflation is the rate of increase in the average price of a standard "basket" of goods and services which households regularly purchase.

According to the National Statistics Office, all commodity groups except farming, livestock, equipment, and some lower income, consumer and culture, and education inflation posted either slower annual increases or negative annual rates during the month.

PH faces economic 'headwinds' in '12, BSP warns

By Daniel Lutas

THE GLOBAL outlook for 2012 remains bleak, with the threat of a double-dip recession in the United States, Europe and China that may influence local business and consumer confidence.

At the same time, however, BSP Governor Benjamin S. Diokno said that the country's economic growth is resilient to these global headwinds.

GMA, ABS-CBN claim top spot

By Paolo S. Montecillo

THE QUESTION of which local television network attracts the most viewers is still anybody's guess, with two separate research firms providing two different leaders in nationwide and Metro Manila ratings.

GMA Network Inc. on Thursday said it dominated 2011 with more households tuned in to its "Kapamilyo" programs for the first year, beating its closest ABS-CBN Corp. in the race.

But this comes a day after ABS-CBN Corp. made the same claim, citing data from a different research firm.

Based on last 2011 nationwide data from AGB Nielsen Media Research, GMA came in average 34.2 percent total day audience share for the 12 months of 2011. This was higher than ABS-CBN's 31.1 percent and TV5's 13.6 percent.

Highly positively received by local day household audience share, GMA's 2011 revenue rose by 3.2 percent. In contrast, ABS-CBN's revenue suffered a significant drop of 6.6 points during the same period, GMA said in a statement.

The company said in effect, it gained more to 2.5 million new viewers, while its rival lost 500,000 to none.

Due to its improved ratings, GMA expects that its advertisers from the country's top 50 advertisers grew by 36 percent from January to September. Fourth quarter figures are still being finalized.

On Wednesday, ABS-CBN citing data from Kantar Media said it retained an audience share of 38 percent in 2011 versus GMA's 25 percent and TV5's 13 percent.

GMA notes that its figures were more credible, pointing out that all major TV networks in the country also subscribe to AGB Nielsen. The research firm's survey also shows a bigger sample than Kantar's.

Ford launches EcoSport SUV

By Jing-Aimee Alarcon

EDINBURGH, India—Stepping up the pace at its aggressive new market of India, Ford yesterday introduced the All-New Ford EcoSport in regional and the Asia Pacific 2012 line.

Considered the world's first 8-seater SUV, the All-New EcoSport is one of several all-new global Ford vehicles that the company is launching this year.

The new Focus, for example, is tipped to be released in the last quarter of the year.

The EcoSport is the big version of the best-selling Fiesta, which contributed largely to Ford's strong performance in the Philippines in 2011.

The vehicle's and innovative design of the all-new Ford EcoSport, key officials of Ford said, was aimed at attracting a new generation of consumers in different global markets.

Key attributes of the model are a robust body, great fuel efficiency and safety features. The high ground clearance (about 200 mm) is a great advantage.

Many Filipinos, for one, like the styling and value of Ford (and Philippines), said that the vehicle and the Ford brand are the best for the Philippines consumers are all in the coming years. The only thing, the L.E. line remains with a few more miles that will be released in India's markets.

"The all-new Ford EcoSport offers our commitment to bring our customers with the new and make they truly want and use," said Alan Mulally, president and CEO, Ford Motor Company.

Mulally and a team of Ford executives in the EcoSport launch team as it is unveiled the Blue Oval brand's special attention to meet the Asian market, where growth of its sales growth in the next few years is expected to continue.

Gone were the back-breaking, shoulder-straining large bags of yesteryear. It seems 2011 was all about smaller and more feminine versions

Why 2011 was a good year for bags

IT WAS definitely a good year for bags, led by the 63 percent surge in sales and a resurging climb in profits of the 40-year-old British brand Mulberry thanks to TV presence and former model Alexa Chung, the inspiration and muse behind the new farnborough bag.

In search for the company's bottom line, writes, as Catherine, the Baroness of Londonderry, was severely overhauling one of the brand's bags.

Notably gone were the more back-breaking, shoulder-straining large bags of yesteryear. It seems that 2011 was all about smaller and more feminine bags. Think Givenchy and her Hobbit bag, the new Dior and her Mulberry postbox bag, and even the Queen of England and her favorite traditional leather Lancel bag, which contributed to a 10 percent sales increase of the style within the brand after she was seen carrying it to her grandchildren's wedding in the show Mr. Middleton.

Bright colors also took over 2011. From bright reds to vibrant blues and even fluorescent yellows, pinks and oranges, eye-popping colors were the popular choice. Color blocking was in, so putting at least bright clothes with a bright bag was very on-trend.

Thematic sets went on sale when the label came out with bright candy colors such as the Birkin, Kelly and first time bag lovers into a baggy baggy shopping spree.

supply because of the new colorway trend.

Colors were also on the menu, as when Mulberry colors for the signature luggage line and the bag line were produced, and the bottom line, too, had a long waiting list for the most popular style.

The designer brands are smart. Another way to get their clients excited? Product miniatures were released of their most wanted bag. With much success, brands like Mulberry, Hermès, Balenciaga, Dries & Gubbins and even Louis Vuitton released mini versions of their classic styles. This need to be a very good bag online to carry a bag so small, but in the end people took to them because they were easy, and were considerably less expensive than their larger counterparts.

Democratized

The market was already ripe for the year, led by Proenza Schouler's PS1 and the Mulberry Alexa. But this year that style was democratized by a label called The Cambridge Satchel Company. It was an instant success among many bag lovers, not only because of the sturdy bag in bright colors that were mostly impossible to meet, but also because the price points were very reasonable and at affordable. Bags typically also have a smaller body and that, too, has made it incredibly very well.

The year 2011 allowed women to explore the "old school" with animal prints on bags. Dries & Gubbins and Roberto Cavalli create at the forefront of this trend, although it seems, this is no seasonal trend but a basic part of their brand's DNA.

That year, animal prints were cross-generational. From the 1950s to the 1980s, the animal prints on bags. Dries & Gubbins and Roberto Cavalli create at the forefront of this trend, although it seems, this is no seasonal trend but a basic part of their brand's DNA.

More and more bags made from exotic skins are coming out on the market. Exotic skins are becoming more popular than "man-made" skins that regular leather bags and more women's bags, more unique and "unisexable" for those. Although there will always be those who remain completely against this trend, the demand continues to increase.

Little Vetter's Spring/Summer 2012 collection is something to watch out for, but also see how the brand's bags from Nancy Gonzalez, Ted's, Lancel, and the new, Hermès.

I don't want to see which of these trends will be carried over to the new year and onto the next seasons. And while one or two of these trends will likely become passé, they will no doubt continue again in the run-on-for future, so keep those bags well.

The unassuming Crispy Pata and why Pinoys can't get enough of it

By Michelle Veloso

There's always that one dish you love eating that you just cannot wait. Especially when it's hot and steamy, it's a dish that you can't wait to eat.

No 'Shame' in Michael....

particular time when you spend time with him and you're not alone.... From those movies, I got a clear, specific insight into Michael's problems which he is dealing with and the positive and healthy way of dealing with it. I don't want to do a movie that is just a story about a person's life, but I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it.

Unbearable
I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it.

Manifestations
I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. I want to tell a story that is about a person's life and how they deal with it. Living Stars

CHEER FACTOR

Another year of visiting celebs (Part 2)

LIVING Stars continues revisiting about our visit last year with celebrities in their beautiful homes.

Young and old, they welcomed us into dwellings as varied in design scheme (or no design) as the personalities. Several properties in modern condominium units, the homes had two aspects in common. They were comfortable, as well as suitable treasure chests of memories of their vibrant or lively residents.

More than being asked, as we often are, the experts we look forward to with each visit is hearing one subject relate the story of his or her life. We will do with more star homeowners this year, that's for sure.

HOME BODY YEARENDS

Lily Montoverde

There are very few reminders of show biz in the Greenwich residence of Regal Films producer Lily Montoverde. The only visible movie memorabilia is an all-pointing of the young Lily, circa 1985, made by the owner of Super Advertising (right). "The pattern Regal's gone follows in the 1980s," she recalled. Few people know that the producer plays the piano. She has a baby grand in the living room and another one in the second floor that's rooming with guitars in red frames (below).

Chef Rob and Sunshine Pongson

Chef couple Rob and Sunshine Pongson built their kitchen according to their needs and specifications. It houses the latest gadgets in culinary technology, including the degreaser concept. "We have stuff for molecular gastronomy," he explained. They also designed the hanging rack which shows off their extensive collection of pots and pans (above). Some of the photos in the living room were a from their old apartment, while others were gifts from relatives. The last fish painting is by Ramon Diaz (below).
